Activating a Pack

When roaming in an eligible destination, you will receive a Welcome SMS with information about available roaming packs and instructions to activate them. The message will look similar to: “Welcome to [Country Name]! To use your [Mobile Service Number] while you’re here, simply choose a roaming pack and text the code to 179.” It will include details about the packs and an example of how to activate.

To activate a pack, send the corresponding pack code to 179.

Messages sent to 179 are toll-free and do not incur charges. Be sure to reply to 179, not “MyAcct”.

Once you successfully activate a pack, you will receive a confirmation SMS, such as: “Success! You’ve added the [Travel Pack Name] to [Mobile Service Number]. It expires at midnight AEST in [xx] days and includes [xxx] call minutes, [xxx] SMS from this country, and [xx] GB of roaming data.” This message will also provide other key details about your pack.

You’ll continue to receive a Welcome Message via SMS every 7 days as long as you stay connected to the same roaming network, keeping you informed throughout your travels.

Travel Pack Utilisation - Activation

Travel packs expire at 11:59:59 PM Sydney local time (AEST or AEDT) on their expiry date, regardless of the country you are roaming in. While roaming packs have different validity periods, they all follow Sydney time for their start and end times. If a pack is activated after midnight, it remains valid until midnight AEST on its expiry date. The period from activation to midnight AEST on the activation date is not counted towards the pack’s validity, ensuring you enjoy the full duration of your roaming pack.

Travel Pack Utilisation - Consumption Priority

You can activate multiple travel packs at once. When multiple packs are active, the allowances from the pack with the earliest expiry date will be used first.

For example, if you exhaust your data allowance on day 2 of your travel pack and activate a new one, here’s how your allowances will be managed:

- Calls and SMS: You’ll continue using the remaining allowances from your first pack until it expires. Once expired, any unused allowances from your new pack will be applied, provided the new pack has not expired.
- Data: Your data usage will immediately start deducting from the new pack.

If you activate the same travel pack again, all allowances will reset to the new pack’s limits.

SMS Notifications

While roaming, you may receive various SMS notifications to keep you informed about your travel pack and usage:

- Welcome Message: sent upon arriving in an eligible destination and every 7 days whilst you remain there.
- Recharge Unsuccessful: sent if your attempt to activate a travel pack is unsuccessful.
- New Travel Pack Activated: sent to confirm the successful activation of your travel pack.
- Welcome Message (Non-Eligible Destination): sent when you arrive in a non-eligible roaming destination and every 7 days while you remain there.
- Data 10MB Remaining: sent when only 10MB of data remains in your travel pack. Information may be up to 48 hours old.
- 5 Minutes Remaining: sent when you have 5 minutes of call time left in your travel pack. Information may be up to 48 hours old.
- 5 SMS Remaining: sent when you have 5 SMS remaining in your travel pack. Information may be up to 48 hours old.

Travel Pack Balance Information
